COMBINES BENEFITS OF MIFARE OR PROXIMITY CARD WITH CONVENIENCE, FLEXIBILITY OF SILICONE WRISTBANDS

Leading NYC security systems integrator, Idesco, expands product line with Uband Wearable Access Control Solution

NEW YORK, NY Idesco Corp., a leading New York-based security systems integrator, is proud to reveal that it now resells the Uband, a wearable access control solution that combines all the benefits of a MIFARE or proximity card with the convenience and flexibility of a silicone wristband. This new product provides the user a more efficient way to gain access into a facility or designated area. Securing any given property from unlawful intrusion or theft can be a daunting task. The difference between a proximity card and the new Uband product is that it remains attached to the person at all times; adding an extra layer of security. This new access control solution reduces the risk of theft which would result in an unqualified individual gaining access into a building or designated area.

The Uband product comes in two different types of wristbands utilizing two different technologies, proximity and MIFARE. Both types of wristbands come in multiple sizes to accommodate various users. This new product will surely take the access control industry by storm with its wearability, durability, customizability and flexibility while keeping buildings secure by simplifying your access control system. The Uband decreases expenses from lost or damaged cards and increases brand recognition. This innovative contactless solution is perfect for colleges and universities, fitness centers, office buildings, hospitals, and recreation centers. Uband performs all the functions of a card while sitting conveniently on the wrist, resulting in a simpler and more efficient way at securing an organization. The Uband MIFARE works a little differently, utilizing the MIFARE technology, this wristband can be used for access control, making payments and much more; the customer can include the features they want and leave out the ones they don't while the Uband Proximity is strictly for access control.

"We are dedicated to providing our customers with products that deliver reliability, simplicity, and convenience while keeping any facility or property secure," said Andrew Schonzeit, president at Idesco Corp. "Idesco has been selling state-of-the-art security solutions from top manufacturers for years and now with the Uband we can offer customers an entirely new and convenient access control solution that will increase the likelihood of use while reducing the risk of loss or theft. We look forward to helping organizations conveniently keep their employees and assets safe and secure with this new solution."

The Uband proximity wristband comes in black or blue colors while the Uband MIFARE comes in 20 different colors, and both can be fully customized with logos, graphics or text for any company or facility.

Idesco will be exhibiting at BuildingsNY May 24th & 25th showcasing the new Uband technology at booth #239. Idesco shows no signs of stopping its growth and will continue to lead the way in delivering the best integrated security solutions in the area.
